Join the EIT Alumni Startup Days to tackle societal issues

Taking place in six cities, two hundred EIT Alumni and Students will be uniting on the weekend of 2 to 4 December 2016 to create a positive impact through innovation and entrepreneurship.

The EIT Alumni Startup days is a community building initiative that enhances cooperation across the EIT's Knowledge and Innovation Communities. By bringing together students, graduates, researchers, developers, young professionals and start-up enthusiasts in 6 cities across Europe for a 54 hour event, we connect a global network of entrepreneurs and innovators.

Challenges addressed by the participants will come from corporate sponsors, companies within the local innovation ecosystem or EIT Alumni members wanting to expand and seek help for their start-up propositions.

The second edition of this pan-European event builds on the successes of the inaugural Startup Days, which saw 170 participants develop concepts, network and enhance vital cognitive and team working skills. The ideas conceptualised during last year's event ranged from bridging gaps between farmers and people who live in the city, a dictionary for hand gestures, a solar oven that bakes bread, to solving water pollution by utilising micro-algae.
